Joseph Schwartz specializes in litigation and arbitration and advises on commercial and corporate law.

Joseph's special interest and core competence is the intersection between technology and the law. He acquired technical expertise in this area by working in the IT field, and now uses his familiarity with the market and the industry to advise start-ups and established companies on all relevant legal matters.

Joseph has a wealth of practice experience in litigation and arbitration, having worked at several leading international law firms, including positions in Berlin and Shanghai. He acts as counsel and arbitrator.

Alongside his current role, Joseph continues to contribute to the academic community. He has been involved with the Willem C. Vis Commercial Arbitration Moot for many years. In his own academic endeavors, Joseph obtained a doctorate degree in German and European energy industry law at Berlin Humboldt University. He has been a partner at the firm since 2017.
